MACA Update

by George Mirijanian

At its October 16 board meeting in Natick, the MACA board of directors passed a balanced budget of $14,653 for fiscal year 2011-2012.

2012 MACA Election Also at the October meeting of the MACA board, George Mirijanian was appointed the chair of MACA's Elections Commission. Candidates for officer and director positions on the MACA board should submit their nominations to George by sending email to election2012@masschess.org or writing to him at 176 Oak Hill Road, Fitchburg MA 01420.

2011 CJA Awards On August 13th Ramon Hernandez, the Awards Committee Chairman and Chief Judge of the Chess Journalists of America, announced the winners of the 2011 CJA Awards. Chess Horizons was the co-runner up for Best State Magazine/Newsletter, which sounds impressive until you learn that only three magazines were entered in this category! Georgia Chess was first with five votes, and Chess Horizons and Northwest Chess were tied for second with three votes each. What is truly something to celebrate, though, is that Chess Horizons was the winner for Best Chess Magazine/Newsletter Layout for its October-December 2010 issue. Congratulations to Chess Horizons layout editor Max Sewell! Congratulations also to FM David Griego, who was runner-up for the Best Analysis Award for his article "The Most Interesting Games of the 79th Massachusetts Open", which was published in the October-December 2010 issue of Chess Horizons.

Donate to MACA!

MACA is a 501(c)3 non-profit educational organization, so your donation is tax deductible. There are four ways you can donate:

Living Memorial Chess Fund. This fund is used for special projects such as furnishing free chess sets to schools, libraries and public service agencies. For a $35 minimum donation a person you designate can be added to a list of people honored by donations to this fund.

Prison Chess Fund. Donations to this fund are used to mail Chess Horizons to prison inmates.

Chess Horizons. Donations designated for Chess Horizons increase the money that's available to help us publish a high quality magazine.

General donations. If you don't designate a use for the money that you donate it will be used to help defray MACA's general expenses.

Mail your check, payable to MACA, to MACA Treasurer Bob Messenger, 4 Hamlett Dr. Apt. 12, Nashua NH 03062.

IM Igor Foygel wins 71st New England Open

by George Mirijanian

International master Igor Foygel is the new New England Open champion. The 64-year-old IM from Brookline, Mass. notched five wins and a half-point bye to claim first place in the 21-player Open section of the 71st New England Open, held Sept. 3-5 at the Four Points by Sheraton Hotel in Leominster, Mass. Capturing second place with a 5-1 score was 16-year-old national master Andrew Wang of Cambridge, Mass., whose only loss was to Foygel in the penultimate round as follows:

This move characterizes the so-called "Lesser Simagin Variation," also known as the Spassky Variation, as was seen in Donner-Spassky, Goteborg 1955. Black's other possibilities were 7...Bg4 (Simagin Variation), as was played in Foygel-Tylevich, 66th Mass. Open, Marlborough 1997; 7...e5 (Uhlmann or Szabo Variation), and 7...a6 (Panno Variation), as was seen in Foygel-Chase in the final round of this year's New England Open. After 7...Bf5, this position was identical to Foygel vs. Frank Wang, Andrew's father, which was played in round 2 of the tournament.

This move is questionable. Better was 10...Bd7.

Better was either 11...Qd7 or 11...Qc8 with the idea of 12...Bh3.

Bad was 13. cxb5 axb5 14. Nxb5?? because of 14...Be2.

This move works better if the light-squared bishop had been on d7.

Tying for third place with 3.5-2.5 results were FIDE master Christopher Chase of Somerville, national masters Lawyer Times of Hyde Park and Libardo Rueda of Winthrop. Also scoring 3.5-2.5 and tying for third and sharing the Under 2200 prizes were experts Grant Xu of Shrewsbury, David Harris of Providence, R.I., and Andrew Liu of Westborough, as well as Class A contestants Tian Rossi of West Newton and Soren Aletheia-Zomlefer of Phoenix, Ariz.

Thomas DeMartino of Dorchester won first place in the 25-player Under 2000 section with a score of 5.5-0.5. Michelle Chen of Concord was second with a 4.5-1.5 tally. Tying for third place with 4-2 results were Tim Bromley of Billerica, Siddharth Arun of Medfield, Howard Goldowsky of Canton and Mateos Sahakian of Medford.

Andy Li of Acton tallied 5-1 to finish first in the 24-player Under 1750 section. Tying for 2nd-3rd place with scores of 4.5-1.5 were Brian Smith of Connecticut and Thomas Sifter of Quincy.

The 18-player Under 1500 section saw a tie for 1st-2nd place between O'Young of New Hampshire and Sean Blaisdell of Revere. Both scored 4.5-1.5. Tying for third with 4-2 tallies were Anton Barash of Brighton and Robert E. King of Plymouth. Also scoring 4-2 and tying for third and sharing the top Under 1350 prizes were Robert Walton Jr. and Pooja Welling, both of New Hampshire.

Yi Yang Sweeps 1st Spiegel Cup Qualifier

by Bob Messenger

Playing in only his second rated tournament, 12-year-old Yi Yang of Shrewsbury swept the Age 14 & Under section of the 1st Spiegel Cup Qualifier, going 4-0 against a field which included Charlie Fauman, rated 1938, Evan Meyer, rated 1719, both of Newton, and Andy Li of Acton, rated 1650. Besides winning 1st place and qualifying for the Spiegel Cup finals, Yi earned a post-tournament rating of 2366! This may be over-stating his playing strength (until he loses a game, who can tell?), but this is clearly a player to watch in future tournaments. Andy, Charlie and Evan tied for second along with Anton Barash of Brighton.

The Age 11 & Under section also featured a 4-0 sweep, with Sandeep Vadlamudi of Lexington beating top-rated Tal Puhov of Shrewsbury in the last round to win the section. Tal tied with six other players for second place: Ari Xuan of Boxborough, Eric Feng of Sudbury, Sathwik Karnik of Plainville, Alan Sikarov of Newton, Andrew The of Lexington, and Isabella Shih of Andover.

There was a three way tie for 1st place in the Age and Under section between Eddie Wang of Acton, Lucy Cai of Lexington and Tyler Saklad of Sudbury. Eddie won an exciting blitz playoff to win the 1st place trophy and qualify for the finals.

Jacob Brockman of Newton won the Novice Under 800 section with a 4-0 score. Marc Bacharach of Wayland was second with 3-1, and five players tied for third with 2-2 scores: Aurash Vatan of Lexington, Rohan Sheth of Boston, Audrey Gaines of Shrewsbury, Siddharth Simon of Newton, and Graham Macklin of Wayland.

Giorgio Roscini of West Newton won the Novice Under 400 section with a score of 3½-½. Nicholas Bart and Adrian Seeger, both of Newton, and Philip Melki of Brookline tied for second with 3-1.

The MACA Scholastic Committee has decided on two rules changes for this scholastic season: winners of qualifiers will be allowed to play in later qualifiers, and there will be no High School sections in the qualifiers; instead, there will be a High School championship which will be open to all players in grades 9-12.

Brian Mottershead was the chief director of this 80 player tournament, assisted by George Mirijanian, Steve Frymer and Bob Messenger. The tournament was held on October 2nd at the Holiday Inn Select in Woburn.

Gelashvili First at the 41st Continental Open

by Bob Messenger

Grandmaster Tamaz Gelashvili topped a 31-player Open section field to finish first at the 41st Continental Open, held August 11th to 14th at the Sturbridge Host Hotel in Sturbridge. Gelashvili ensured his 5½-½ victory with a last round win against GM Sergey Kudrin of Connecticut. Gelashvili's fellow New York GMs Giorgi Kacheishvili and Mikheil Kekelidze tied for second place, a full point back at 4½-1½. There was a six-way tie for third place between GM Alexander Ivanov of Newton, IMs Irina Krush and Justin Sarkar of New York, Jonathan Yedidia of Cambridge and Jim Rizzitano of Southborough, and 16-year-old Winston Huang of Newton.

15-year-old Darwin Ding of Lexington, with a pre-tournament rating of just 1910, finished clear first in the 35-player Under 2200 section with a 5-1 score. Kevin Zhou of Virginia won the 46-player Under 2000 section with 5½-½, as did Roman Cano of Pennsylvania in the 32-player Under 1800 Section, Michael Kind of Manchester, New Hampshire in the 41-player Under 1600 section, and William Van Rensselaer of the Virgin Islands in the 26-player Under 1300 Section. Shawn Andrews of Vermont and Colin Smith of Maine tied for first with 5-1 scores in the 17-player Under 1000 section.

Bill Goichberg directed this 213 player tournament for the Continental Chess Association, assisted by his wife Brenda and by Bob Messenger.

Vigorito on Chess

by IM Dave Vigorito

"Get 'em while they're young."
– John Curdo

John told me this at a Billerica Saturday Swiss (who remembers Honeywell?) back in the late 1980's after beating one of countless young upstarts. The point was, of course, that kids often improve rapidly, and if you don't beat them while they are still young, you may not get another chance. Many of the kiddies leave chess before they get good or soon after, but many stick around and become good players. Of course when Curdo said this, it did not occur to me that he may be talking about me, too. My results against the New England legend have certainly improved over the years, but I still have an insurmountable negative score against him. He certainly got me while I was young...

There are many young players in the U.S. who are now Grandmasters that I played when they were less well known. I played Josh Friedel in a simul when he was around 8, and I beat him (for the first and last time) when he was about 2170. In these pages the reader may have noticed that I played Ray Robson twice – losing both games – when he was younger. I have never played Hikaru Nakamura in a tournament game, but my friends Joe Fang and Nathan Resika both have, and they both beat him. It's all in the timing. I played in tournaments in Budapest in 2000 and 2003 and played the likes of future-GM's Csaba Balogh and Tamas Banusz. I drew both of these games, which was not so special at the time, but I also played a couple of better known players who were coincidentally also named David...

David Howell, (2250)
[A26] English Opening
Elekes Memorial (5), 21.05.2003

At the time of this game, David Howell was only about 12 or 13 years old. He was rated 2250, but he was improving rapidly and was 2323 on the next rating list. David had already earned a bit of a name for himself, as he played a blitz match against then World Champion Vladimir Kramnik. Although he lost (surprise) 3.5-.5, he drew a game and this was allegedly some sort of record for the youngest player to ever draw an active World Champion. I was a little higher rated and White, but I was still scared of him. My good friend Joe Fang and I were staying together for the tournament. Joe tried to reassure me, "he's just a little kid." I replied, "yes, but he has sharp teeth and claws!"

1.c4

Howell's favorite opening was and still is the Grunfeld, and I did not have much confidence facing it against a young tactician.

1...e5 2.g3 Nc6 3.Bg2 g6 4.Nc3 Bg7 5.e4 d6 6.Nge2 f5 7.d3 Nf6 8.0-0 0-0 9.Nd5 Ne7

The Botvinnik English was an opening I felt comfortable playing, as I had used it when I was younger (I did not start playing in real tournaments until I was 16) at the Billerica Chess Club.

10.Be3?!

But I make a mistake immediately and allow Black to seize the initiative. Better is 10.Nxf6+! Bxf6 11.Bh6 (11.d4 was recommended by Kosten) and White has easy development after either 11...Rf7 12.Qd2 or 11...Bg7 12.Bxg7 Kxg7 13.Qd2.

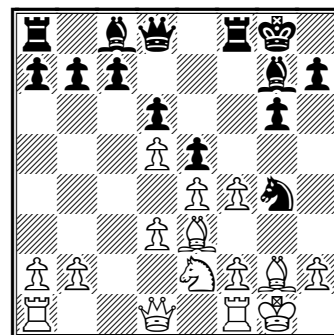

10...Nexd5!

Now Black is able to exchange off his less active knight.

11.cxd5 f4!

A well timed pawn sacrifice. Instead 11...Ng4 12.Bd2 f4 13.f3 Ne3 14.Bxe3 fxe3 is not so clear.

12.gxf4 Ng4

13.h3!

I already recognized the danger and spent 38 minutes here. I calculated a couple of lines which still look accurate in 2011:

a) 13.Qd2 Qh4 14.h3 Nxe3 15.fxe3 Bxh3 16.Bxh3 Qxh3 17.Rf2 Rf7 and with a safer king, Black is at least a little better.

b) 13.Bc1? Qh4 14.h3 Nh6 15.fxe5 Bxe5 gives Black a very strong attack:

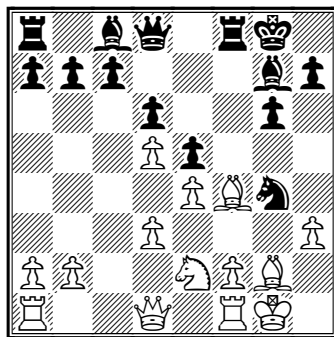

b1) 16.f4 Bxh3! 17.fxe5 Bxg2 18.Kxg2 Ng4

b2) 16.d4 Bxh3!! 17.dxe5 Ng4 18.Bf4 Bxg2 19.Kxg2 Rxf4 20.Nxf4 Qh2+ 21.Kf3 Rf8

13...exf4?!

This is a mistake, based on Black's next error. Instead 13...Nxe3 14.fxe3 exf4 15.exf4 Bxb2 16.Rb1 Bg7 would be unclear. Black has the bishop pair while White has more space and center pawns.

14.Bxf4

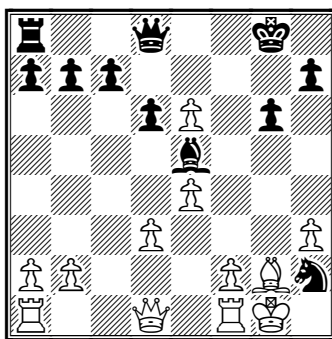

14...Rxf4?

This is just too much. I made a mistake on the 10th move, but that's it. Black can not just overrun White after one mistake. Better was 14...Ne5 when Black at least has a little bit of compensation for the pawn.

15.Nxf4 Be5 16.Ne6 Bxe6 17.dxe6 Nh2

"No pawn exchanges, no file-opening, no attack."

—Aaron Nimzowitsch

This does not really do much. White could even play 18.Re1. Even after 18...Qh4 Black does not really have anything other than some dark squared control for the exchange and a pawn. But White has a better way.

18.f4!

This returns some material but White seizes the initiative for good.

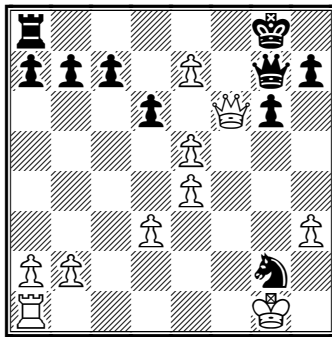

18...Nxf1 19.fxe5 Ne3 20.Qf3 Nxf2

There is no need to recapture the knight yet, so White can proceed with the attack.

21.Qf7+ Kh8 22.e7 Qg8

Instead 22...Qe8 loses after 23.Qf6+ Kg8 24.Rf1 Ne3 25.Qe6+ Kg7 (or 25...Kh8 26.Rf7) 26.Rf8.

23.Qf6+ Qg7

24.Rf1! Rg8 25.Kxg2 dxe5

After 25...h5 I had calculated 26.e6 (26.Qf8 also wins) 26...Kh7 27.Qxg7+ Kxg7 28.Rf7+ with the idea Rf8.

26.Qf8 1-0

In Budapest I played a few game against the Berczes brothers. Csaba was older and stronger on my first trip in 2000, but in 2003 his younger brother David had been showing rapid improvement. Now David is a 2550 rated GM.

[D17] Slav Defense

FSIM June Budapest HUN (4), 10.06.2003

1.d4 d5 2.c4 c6 3.Nf3 Nf6 4.Nc3 dxc4 5.a4 Bf5 6.Ne5

This is the critical line of the Slav. White intends to build a big center with f3 and e4, when the f5-bishop will be locked out of play. The main lines are very complicated and theoretical and I was not ready for them. I decided to play a sideline that my friend IM Cyrus Lakdawala had played with success. My preparation for this game was based on playing through some of Cyrus's blitz games on the ICC!

6...Na6

Really this move is probably a bit dubious and Black is better off with the main continuations 6...e6 and 6...Nbd7. Its main virtue is that it sets a trap that White is likely to fall into if he is not familiar with the line.

7.f3?!

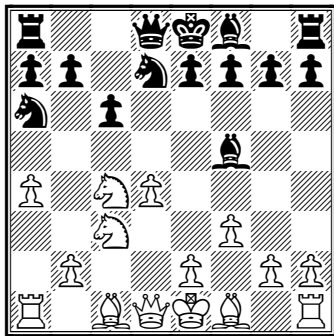

This is the trap! The problem is the quiet 7.e3! which I faced when I dared to repeat this line against GM Dash. He played this instantly and already I regretted my opening choice. 7...Nb4 8.Bxc4 (this line can also come about from the move order (6.e3 Na6 7.Bxc4 Nb4 8.Ne5) 8...e6 (of course not 8...Nc2+ 9.Qxc2! Bxc2 10.Bxf7#) 9.0-0 Bd6 10.f4 h6 11.Qe2 Bc7 12.g4 Bh7 13.f5 Nbd5 14.e4 Nb6 15.Be3 Bxe5? 16.dxe5 Nxc4? 17.fxe6 Nxc4 18.exf7+ Kf8 19.Bc5+ 1-0 D.Sharavdorj-D.Vigorito, Las Vegas 2005. Ugh.

7...Nd7!

Black is looking to play a quick ...e5 to exploit his better development and the weaknesses that White has created on the dark squares with the move 7.f3!?

8.Nxc4

If 8.e4 Nxe5 9.dxe5 (one trap is 9.exf5 Nd3+ 10.Bxd3 cxd3 11.Qxd3 Nb4 with the idea 12.Qd1 Qxd4!) 9...Qxd1+ 10.Nxd1 Be6 and Black stands very well. Black is also happy after 8.Nxd7 Bxd7 9.e4 e5! 10.Bxc4 (or 10.dxe5 Be6) 10...exd4 11.Qxd4 Nb4. White's weaknesses on the queenside come back to haunt him. This is one point of the Slav for Black – White weakens his queenside with the move 5.a4 and must not lose the initiative or he can run into trouble.

8...e5! 9.e4

Instead 9.dxe5 loses a piece to 9...Qh4+ 10.g3 Qxc4. White gets it back after 11.e4, but Black is still doing well after 11...Qe6 12.exf5 Qxe5+. White is certainly not better after 9.Nxe5 Nxe5 10.dxe5 Nb4 11.e4 Be6.

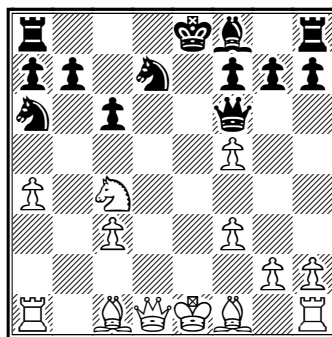

9...exd4 10.exf5

After 10.Qxd4 Nb4! 11.Qd1 (White should try 11.Na3 Be6 when Black is only a little better) 11...Be6 and Black intends ...Nc5 when the weaknesses of the b3- and d3-squares give Black a big advantage.

10...dxc3 11.bxc3

The tactical try 11.Qe2+ Be7 12.Nd6+ Kf8 13.Nxb7 loses after 13...Qb6 14.Qxa6 (14.bxc3 Re8!) 14...Bh4+! (14...cxb2 wins too) 15.g3 Re8+ 16.Kd1 (16.Be2 Qxa6) 16...Qb3 mate!

11...Qf6

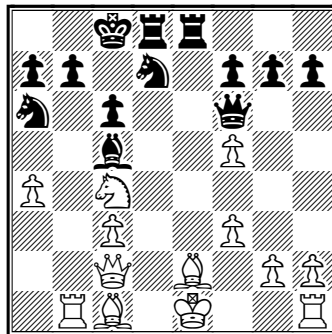

This was an idea I got from Cyrus's blitz games. Black will castle long and bring both rooks to the center. The game has a very classical feel to it (for Black!)

12.Qc2 0-0-0 13.Be2 Bc5

This prevents White from castling, but 13...Nb4 is strong too.

14.Rb1 Rhe8

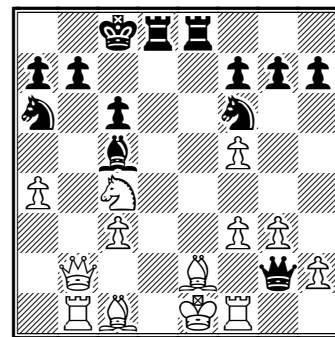

White's position is in shambles. My opening experiment worked (this once, at least) against a 2300+ FM opponent. In this kind of tournament, it is important not to lose when norm-hunting, while a win with Black was very big, especially as I had drawn my first three games.

15.Kf1?

This just loses time. The sad moves 15.g3 (intending Kf1-g2) and 15.h4 (stopping ...Qh4) were better attempts at survival.

15...Qh4 16.g3 Qh3+ 17.Ke1 Qg2 18.Rf1 Nf6 19.Qb2

White gets to threaten mate.

19...Nb4!

Black threatens ...Nd3+ and White is mated after 20.cxb4 Bxb4+ 21.Qxb4 Qxe2#

0-1

Marlboro Action Swiss

by Bob Messenger

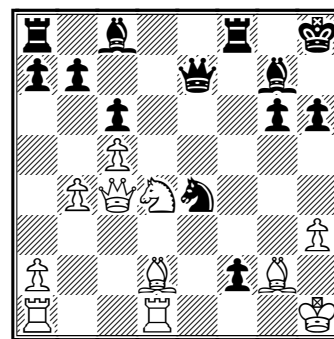

GM Alexander Ivanov coasted home with three wins and a last round draw against second seeded NM Robert Perez to win the Marlboro Action Swiss, which was held on September 18th at the Best Western Royal Plaza Hotel in Marlboro, Mass. IM Jim Rizzitano finished second with 3-1, losing to Ivanov in round three but beating Perez and two lower rated players. He finished in fine style with a last round win against Massachusetts Age 14 & Under champion Grant Xu. Agustin Garcia and Alan Strelzoff split the Under 2000 prize, each scoring one point. In the Under 1800 Section David Martin and Jesse Gechtman, who was playing in his first rated tournament, tied for first with 3-1, with Tal Puhov and Eric Feng tying for the Under 1600 and Under 1400 prizes with 2.5-1.5. Stefan Grosser won the Under 1200 prize with 1.5-2.5, including a 770 point upset in round three. The games were played at a time control of game in 30 minutes. Although the turnout of 15 players plus a house player was disappointingly small the Open section was strong, with four masters and two experts. Bob Messenger organized and directed the tournament for Granite State Chess.

Evan Meyer & Andrew Liu 1st at Marlboro Youth Blitz

by Bob Messenger

The Marlboro Youth Blitz tournament was held on September 18th at the Best Western Royal Plaza Hotel in Marlboro, Mass. Each player played ten games, two games each round for five rounds, with a time control of five minutes for each game. Since only 15 players entered the tournament all three sections (Age 18 & Under, Age 12 & Under, and Age 8 & Under) were combined into a single section and players won prizes based on their age, rating, number of points and tiebreak points. The trophy winners were:

1st Age 18 & Under: Evan Meyer (9-1)
 1st Age 12 & Under: Andrew Liu (9-1)

2nd Age 18 & Under: Gershon Gilman (7-3)
 3rd Age 18 & Under: Benjamin Piche (6-4)
 2nd Age 12 & Under: Justin Wu (6-4)
 3rd Age 12 & Under: Alan Sikarov (6-4)
 1st Age 8 & Under: Alexander Ying (5-5)
 Top Under 1000: August Donovan (4.5-5.5)
 Top Under 800: Andres Garro-Duplisea (4.5-5.5)
 2nd Age 8 & Under: Raghav Srinivasan (4-6)
 3rd Age 8 & Under: David Liu (2.5-7.5)

Adam Piche (6-4) and Adam Maimon (4.5-5.5) won medals. Bob Messenger organized and directed the tournament for Granite State Chess.

Games Submitted for "Most Interesting Game" Prize

by FM John Curdo

Seventy-seven (77) games were entered in the 80th Mass. Open "Most Interesting Game" contest. As judge, the games were given to me "blind"—meaning no players' names. My selections, no doubt, had to be influenced by my 65-year-long love affair with classical chess. It's no small coincidence that all the games feature mating attacks.

OPEN

The Open section had 16 entries, many of them fine games. The chosen one spiked my interest because White's modern maneuver (11. b4) was met by the same idea (15...b5) when Black ended up with a slight lead in development! White's pieces became awkward, while trying to develop, resulting in material loss. Then his attempts at counterplay gave Black a mating attack. The neat finish would be 33. Kxh3 Nf4+ 34. gxf4 Qf3+ 35. Kh4 Be7 mate.

UNDER 2100

This section had the least number of entries with 15 games. In my choice, Black was too casual, keeping lines open (11...bxa4 and 20...Kc7), allowing White to pressure his king. White finishes nicely with a middle-of-the board Arabian-style mate.

UNDER 1800

This section had the most submissions, 24 games. My choice here was easier, a Sicilian Dragon! I've always had difficulties balancing attack and defense. White has the right idea here: me attack, you defend.

In Memoriam

By Stephen Dann (MACA Education and Volunteer coordinator/chair)

Norman Peacor

Massachusetts has had its share of politicians who run for national office, but few in chess compare to C. Norman Peacor, life member of MACA, who had a full career as an insurance executive, and, who ran and became the USCF's first Treasurer in 1976. He died at age 84 on July 16 at an assisted living center in Providence, RI, and was buried near his retirement home in Orleans on August 13.

Born in Somerville (like Harry Nelson Pillsbury in 1872), he grew up in Stoneham, where he and his two brothers attended secondary school, and then received his BA from Tufts University in Medford and a MS in math from the University of Michigan.

Peacor spent the bulk of his insurance career at the home office of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Springfield, rising to become Executive Vice President, with huge civic responsibilities detailed in the July 20 Springfield Republican obituary. No one in the chess world heard about his passing until weeks later because his civic work overshadowed his hobbies and family pursuits.

Peacor realized during the "chess boom" of the 1970's that a large part of the "endowment" of most chess organizations was in the life membership funds that turned into investments involving more than 10,000 USCF members and millions of dollars. This has sparked political debates for four decades.

In short, it was sort of by chance that he became involved in chess politics at all, and decided to run for the USCF board in 1976, becoming its first treasurer. Fred Townsend of Connecticut told us this story more than 30 years ago, but only recently relayed this again to current USCF officials, and this is scheduled to appear in October, Chess Life magazine.

Also online is a Peacor family history, and, his relationship counseling the USCF Trust and USCF business office will be more widely known when there is commentary on www.uschess.org, among those who served USCF during the the 1970's and 1980's. What isn't online is his love of games like chess and bridge, or even that he played golf.

Among the chess officials who were consulted besides Fred Townsend were Leroy Dubeck, Bill Goichberg, George Mirijanian (MACA's current president) and Tony Cottell (now of FL, also a life member of MACA), who followed Peacor as USCF treasurer, and valued his counsel in trying to protect the USCF's life membership assets.

Most helpful were connections made by Glenn Petersen, Chess Life for Kids editor, who has held a variety of positions in the USCF.

It is hoped that the full obituary of Peacor (and other New England chess officials and players) will be linked from the USCF's "In Passing" memorial section to their respective state chess association websites. Many of the roughly 250 life members of MACA (and many others) are also honored by donations made to MACA's Living Memorial Chess Fund, also described in detail at www.masschess.org.

Paul E. Taylor

Paul E. Taylor, 87, of Warwick, RI, who organized chess educational opportunities for youth to seniors, died Aug. 26, 2011 in Rhode Island. Born in Altoona, PA, he was a 45-year executive for the Brown & Sharpe Mfg. Co. in Rhode Island, retiring as International Marketing Manager for a company still well known in the precision measuring tools industry.

In his retirement, he joined forces with Gilbert Gosselin, father of MACA's Living Memorial Chess Fund, and provided the mentoring to establish scholastic and senior chess activities throughout Rhode Island. He provided the "programs," and MACA provided the chess sets in a long relationship between the states.

Praise of his work can be found at his guestbook at www.murphyfuneralhomes.org from families in Providence, Bristol, North Kingstown, Portsmouth and West Warwick, RI, and his good work will long be a part of www.masschess.org, and its Living Memorial Chess Fund.

James W. Dunion

Few chess players gain multiple college degrees, travel, have a family and serve their country and community in the manner of James W. Dunion, 51, of Dudley who died July 30, 2011, and was laid to rest Aug. 8 in Norwich, CT, with full military honors.

Married in Korea in 1987, he visited many countries as an Air Force pilot, and continued his education at the University of Connecticut at Storrs gaining a masters in math, and was very close to a doctorate from the same institution at the time of his passing. He was self-employed as a high level computer program, specializing in computer security.

He was active in the Masonic order, HAM radio, as a softball coach, a USCF local tournament director, and, sought out MACA's help to establish local library chess programs in southern Worcester County. For a variety of reasons, he did not live to see these chess programs materialize.

A memorial rated tournament was conducted Sept. 18 at the University of Connecticut and the club is supporting chess educational training for his son, William T. Dunion of Dudley.

Volunteers are sought to continue Jim Dunion's work as a chess organizer and director in both Massachusetts and his native state of Connecticut, and MACA will provide the chess equipment if volunteers mentor these programs.

Howard Kaikow

A leader in establishing bibliographic standards for the Internet and the computer industry, Howard Kaikow, 69, of Nashua, NH, a life member of MACA and USCF, died April 1 after a long illness.

Until he was about 35, according to his sister, Rita Kaikow of New York, Howard studied Economics at CCNY, University of Michigan, University of Maryland and University of Minnesota, working at some of these and at University of Chicago and Northwestern University, then coming to New England to work at Data General and later at Digital Equipment Corp., which is now part of Hewlett-Packard. He set up a chess online discussion group at Digital, according to Bob Messenger, also of Nashua. After he left Digital, he became an independent contractor of Internet technology.

Despite not having a degree in computer science, Howard started working in the computer standards community more than 30 years ago, being self taught. He participated in U.S. and international standards committees (some as chair, vice chair or editor) primarily via ANSI, ECMA and ISO.

He was best known for his pioneering efforts that led to the ISO 9660 standard and its predecessor, the High Sierra format, the underlying file system for CD-ROM still used today.

In 1993 he became interested in using Microsoft Word macros to facilitate commenting on and writing standards, as well as conducting question and answers on a wide variety of Internet terms that are well known today, but only known by a few academics during this era. You can find some of the 1993 work at <http://ftp.back2roots.org/padua/text/CD-ROM-Survey>. He had a lifelong frustration with technical manuals, but preached friends and family about reading books for lifelong education.

His chess career goes back roughly 40 years to the Marshall Chess Club in New York City during his undergrad days at CCNY. He gave up correspondence chess when he told friends, "I do not wish to play against a computer," probably the frustration of many other amateurs. His family is donating his chess library to MACA's Living Memorial Chess Fund, and attempting to sell his National Standards web domain as to his wishes.

Thanks to Rita Kaikow for putting Howard's life in computer I-T into perspective, a field that many chess-players have had keen interest in recent decades.
